Timothy Starostka Senior, University of Washington

My name is Tim Starostka and I am scheduled to graduate in the spring of 2021 with a B.S. in Construction Management. In my time as a CM student at UW, I have gotten involved with the AGC chapter and will be competing with the concrete Reno team.

My hunger to learn has allowed me to gain diverse experience while developing strong leadership abilities, commitment to success, and motivation to help others. I have gotten the opportunity to aid in construction relief overseas and here in the States. Learning how structure can impact a family or community has pushed me to get a CM degree; to help find sustainable building solutions which utilize available resources and local ingenuity.

I am currently working as an intern for W.G. Clark Construction on a team that is building a 300,000 sf mixed use building in downtown Kirkland. I am excited to stay with the company in the fall, and hopefully see my project through its completion. I intend to focus my career on sustainable development and research.

Down the road, I want to use a position of leadership to ensure that my company is conscious of our community and environmental impacts, while influencing the industry to do the same.

In my spare time I enjoy hiking, and traveling, and music. I am also a Seattle sports, and lifelong Husky football fan.
