A four-day immersive professional development event for educators. Learn from construction industry professionals about the broad array of career pathways in the built environment. Meet with university and college representatives to hear about the programs they offer and how best to assist students interested in pursuing careers in the built environment.

Program Highlights

- Learn about construction careers, apprenticeship programs, certifications, and the pathway to a Construction Management degree
- Tour a variety of construction projects
- Engage with industry experts
- Explore cutting-edge technology used in construction
- Network with current professionals and top executives

Location

University of Washington College of Built Environment

Each day will begin and end at this location. Participants will be transported as a group to tour the various active construction sites throughout the Puget Sound Region.

Please note: In order to deliver and maintain this high-quality, immersive experience for teachers, we are only able to accept a limited number of participants. Priority will be given to educators who are existing Core Plus Construction partners.
